

Custom Cabinets

In the realm of renovations, there is a competitive market for customized products. Cabinets can make a big impact on a room. They are versatile, customizable and useful to store items in the kitchen, living rooms and even the garage. Renowned Renovations thrives on delivering quality products to their consumers. They sought out the best quality cabinet manufacturer to ensure that customers are receiving aesthetically pleasing, durable cabinets that cater to style and maximize the use of living space.

The Demand for Customized Cabinets

The demand for customized cabinets extends further than the kitchen. Custom cabinets can also be used to conceal items that aren't used often, such as spare mattresses and appliances. With the popular open concept design style in construction fashion, it is harder to maximize storage space in a smaller area. Installing custom cabinets is the most efficient way to declutter. Custom cabinetry maximizes space in the household because it can accommodate any width and can be constructed from the floor to the ceiling.

Choosing a Custom Cabinet Supplier

Many large manufacturers offer the same types of custom cabinet types. This becomes a problem when clients want differing styles, customizations and options. Renowned Renovations understood the needs of their clients and sought out a custom manufacturer who could deliver a quality constructed cabinet at a fair market price.

It was easy to find a manufacturer that customized their products, but the problems began when the experts at Renowned Renovations got custom-built cabinets that were not painted. It was seemingly less costly for the consumer for the company to get custom-built cabinets that needed to be refinished on site.

Although getting un-finished cabinets was the alternative Renowned Renovations was searching for, the on-site painting posed another issue. The finished quality and air pollution from the site painted cabinets were not up to the quality standards that Renowned Renovations typically delivers to their customers.

For a renovation company, it is important to note that most of the customers who are looking for cabinets want to be able to customize their products to suit their needs. When purchasing cabinets from a large manufacturer, it is hard to customize the cabinets to suit the needs of the clients especially if the cabinets must be finished or stained.

Finishing cabinets while a client is occupying the space is nearly impossible because of the chemicals in the finishing material. It is bothersome and even dangerous to inhale fumes from paints and stains, especially on the initial installation day. If a dwelling is unoccupied finishing a cabinet on site is very possible unless the dwelling is in a condominium. Nearby neighbors may be affected by the aromas of the chemicals. To solve this dilemma Renown Renovations went on a search for cabinet painters that would pre-finish the cabinets and deliver them to be installed.

The company started to notice that for the cost of quality painters and quality materials they could get custom painted cabinets built. They began their search by looking for the following qualities in a custom cabinet supplier:

1. The superior quality of the construction of the cabinets
2. The quality of the finishes for the cabinets
3. The customizability of the cabinets

Custom Cabinet Suppliers

The search for a custom cabinet supplier entailed some research. When searching for a supplier most construction companies tend to look for the best price points. This leads them to co-ordinate with a supplier located overseas. Renowned Renovations sought out a supplier in the U.S. to not only ensure that they support U.S.-based businesses, they also wanted to find a cabinet maker who will make cabinets that maintain a standard of quality.

The search for a custom cabinet supplier lead to the cabinet capital of the United States, Lancaster County Pennsylvania. Lancaster County is the home of the Amish, the Mennonites, the Brethren and the other traditional people of the Pennsylvania Dutch Country.

These traditional woodworkers, craft furniture and cabinets that are known for their quality wood craftsmanship dating back centuries. The finished products of these suppliers have also been known to outlast the finished products of large cabinet manufacturing plants. The search lead the company to choose the cabinet craftsmanship of Style Craft.

Who is Style Craft?

Style Craft is a company that was founded in 1962. The company was founded by three co-founders, two of whom had joinery experience dating back to the age of Quaker Maid Kitchens. At the onset of the company, there was a factory and a retail store. Eventually, the retail store was bought out by the Style Craft Corporation and one of the partners Norman Hahn, left the trio to open his own cabinet door business.

Norman Hahn opened a cabinet door company called Conestoga. Conestoga makes kitchen cabinet doors for Style Craft as well as other cabinet manufacturers. These doors are crafted from the finest materials and mesh perfectly with the quality of craftsmanship that Style Craft is known for.

Today, Style Craft continues to make cabinets the traditional way. This is the signature of this company's cabinetry.

Why Style Craft?

Style Craft creates face-frame and full access cabinets made from quality plywood veneers and hardwoods. The finishes and adhesives on their cabinets are formaldehyde-free, which ensures that there are no lingering chemical odors. The cabinets can accommodate virtually all types of modifications and additions.

Style Craft employs 20 people to aid in the furniture-making process. The cabinets are all manufactured in a large rectangular warehouse. The process begins in a line formation that starts from the left side of the warehouse and continues to the right. Several machines cut the cabinets at intervals on the assembly line throughout the factory. All precision cuts are made from Computer Numerical Control (CNC) Machinery, but the joinery is all done by hand.

What Makes These Cabinets Unique?

Style Craft cabinets are crafted from the finest materials and in a manner, that is unique from other cabinet manufacturers. Most manufacturers use dowels in the structure of their cabinets. The dowels are used in the joints of cabinets to join pieces together. Dowels are often seen in modern-day, big-box store-bought, book shelving. They are cylindrical pieces of wood that fit into holes in plywood as joiners.

Style Craft does not use dowels. Instead, they use tongue and groove joints to construct their cabinets. This method ensures that the cabinets are sturdy and capable of enduring more weight and tension than dowel joined cabinets.

Style Craft cabinets are stylish, esthetically pleasing and customizable. There are over 10 different types of wood that are available for cabinet making and if you're interested in a special species of wood that isn't typically used by Style Craft, they will do their best to find it and construct the cabinetry of your dreams.

If you're looking for special effects for your cabinet finishes, Style Craft offers the following:

- Antiquing
- Aging
- Distressing
- Worming
- Worn

Variations of these special effects are also available.
